

UNCITRAL Model Law on Electronic Transferable Records (2017)

The model law applies to electronic transferable records that are equivalent to transferrable documents or instruments (such as bills of lading or promissory notes).

It requires the use of a reliable method to establish singularity (preventing double spending or duplication) and to maintain control of the electronic transferable record from creation to termination.